

Biography: Sibilla Siano is currently a PhD student in “Linguistic, Philological and Literary Sciences” at the University of Padua; her research project involves the analysis of some texts from the Auchinleck Manuscript (Edinburgh, National Library of Scotland, Adv MS 19.2.1). She obtained in 2020 a master’s degree in “European and American Languages and Literature” at the University of Padua, with a dissertation under the title of “From Romantic to Mimetic Fiction in Sir Gawain and the Green Knight”. In 2016 she obtained a bachelor's degree in "Foreign Languages Cultures and Literatures" at the University of Padua, with a dissertation under the title of "Shakespeare's Henry V from the Historical Sources to the Creation of a Myth". In 2015, she attended a summer school of the University of Cambridge in Medieval Studies; in 2019 she attended a summer school of the University of Oxford on Sir Gawain and the Green Knight.